19 / (Docket No. 273)

20 Before the Court is defendant Ellen Hancock's ("Hancock") motion, filed October 12, 21 2005, for leave to file a motion for reconsideration of the Court's September 12, 2005 order 22 granting plaintiffs' motion for reconsideration of the dismissal of plaintiffs' claims against 23 Hancock for violation of § 11 and § 15 of the Securities Act of 1933. In the alternative, 24 Hancock asks the Court to certify the September 12, 2005 order for interlocutory appeal, 25 pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1292(b), and to stay further proceedings against her pending appeal.

26 Hancock's argument that the Court's September 12, 2005 order is contrary to Ninth 27 Circuit authority is unconvincing. The Ninth Circuit has expressly recognized that fraud is 28 not an element of a § 11 claim, and that where a § 11 claim is not "grounded in fraud," the

1 allegations need satisfy only the notice pleading standards of Rule 8(a)." See In re Daou
 2 Systems, Inc. Sec. Litig., 411 F.3d 1006, 1027 (9th Cir. 2005). The instant action is 3 distinguishable from both Daou and In re Stac Electronics Sec. Litig., 89 F.3d 1399, 4 1404-05 (9th Cir. 1996), in which cases the § 11 claims at issue therein were found to be 5 "grounded in fraud." Here, plaintiffs did not incorporate into their § 11 claim any of the 6 factual allegations that support their claim for violation of § 10(b) of the Securities
 7 Exchange Act of 1934, (see Corrected Third Amended Consolidated Class Action 8 Complaint ¶¶ 343-355), but rather rely on a separate and alternative theory of what is,
 9 essentially, strict liability. By contrast, the complaint at issue in Stac expressly incorporated 10 into the § 11 claim all of the factual allegations relevant to the § 10(b) claim, albeit with a
 11 "nominal" attempt to exclude the "allegations of fraud," and the complaint at issue in Daou 12 expressly incorporated into the § 11 claim all of the factual allegations relevant to the 13 § 10(b) claim without limitation. (See Hancock's Request for Judicial Notice Ex. A (Stac 14 complaint) ¶ 76, and Ex. B (Daou complaint) ¶ 103); see also Stac, 89 F.3d at 1404 n.2; 15 Daou, 411 F.3d at 1027-28 (holding § 11 claim is "grounded in fraud" and thus subject to 16 Rule 9(b) where plaintiffs "allege a unified course of fraudulent conduct and rely entirely on 17 that course of conduct as the basis of [the] claim" or where complaint "makes a 'wholesale 18 adoption' of the securities fraud allegations" for purposes of § 11 claim) (emphases added).

19 Hancock, in the alternative, requests that the Court certify its September 12, 2005
 20 order for interlocutory appeal, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1292(b), and to stay further 21 proceedings pending appeal. Section 1292(b) permits a district court to certify an 22 interlocutory order for immediate appeal where the court is "of the opinion that such order 23 involves a controlling question of law as to which there is substantial ground for difference 24 of opinion and that an immediate appeal from the order may materially advance the 25 ultimate termination of the litigation[.]" See 28 U.S.C. § 1292(b). The Supreme Court and 26 the Ninth Circuit both have noted that motions for § 1292(b) certifications should rarely be 27 granted. See Coopers & Lybrand v. Livesay, 437 U.S. 463, 475 (1978) (noting party 28 wishing to appeal pursuant to § 1292(b) must establish existence of "exceptional

1 circumstances"); see also James v. Price Stern Sloan, Inc., 283 F.3d 1064, 1067 n.6 (9th
2 Cir. 2002) (noting § 1292(b) certifications should be granted only in "rare circumstances").
3 Here, the relevant legal standard is not in doubt, as the Ninth Circuit expressly reiterated it
4 in Daou only months ago. See Daou, 411 F.3d at 1027-28. Moreover, whenever any 5 motion to dismiss is denied, the moving party can argue that the court erred and that an 6 immediate appeal from that order could materially advance the ultimate termination of the 7 litigation. The Ninth Circuit, however, does not contemplate that denials of motions to 8 dismiss will be certified routinely, and Hancock has not established that "rare 9 circumstances" exist in the instant case.

10 Moreover, the instant case has been pending for four years and discovery has been 11 stayed since the date the case was filed. Allowing Hancock to file an interlocutory appeal, 12 and staying all proceedings pending the outcome of the appeal, may prejudice plaintiffs' 13 ability to prove their case by further delaying discovery and risking the possibility that the 14 memories of relevant witnesses will fade.

15 Accordingly, Hancock's motion is hereby DENIED.

16 This order terminates Docket No. 273.

17 IT IS SO ORDERED.
